Bethel B. Larey, U.S. Attorney for the Western District of Arkansas, P.O. Box 1594, Fort Smith, Ark. 72901, sends me a brief report on the success of the hot-line telephone number in giving tips to the anti-narcotics agents. He quotes from the latest federal bulletin:

"Another of the tools of the Drug Abuse Law Enforcement Office is the national Heroin Hotline, established by the President in April. The Hotline is a toll-free telephone number (800-368-5363) and offers citizens a quick and convenient way to pass on to federal investigators information about heroin trafficking. In the first four months, the Hotline has registered nearly 5,500 helpful tips which have been relayed to enforcement teams across the land."

That's a fine report. Hope area citizens should clip out the telephone number given above and paste it on their telephone set in the event they find information the government needs in its war against drug pushers.

Judge and Mrs. Royce Weisenberger, home from a tour of Europe, sent me a couple of foreign newspapers—the Sept. 14 edition of the London Daily Telegraph, and the Vaterland of Sept. 12, a German magazine supplement.

The London paper features a special article "Justice for Kipling," reviving the prestige of the literary hero of half a century ago whose reputation has languished in recent years.

Regarding Vaterland (Fatherland) I am unable to make a report. As a student I had two years of Spanish and three of German, with indifferent success. In 1921-22 I was president of the junior class in the School of Journalism, Columbia University, and one of the requirements for graduation was to translate one column of a foreign language into newspaper English in two hours. I chose German, flunked two tests, and switched to the University of Missouri, whose School of Journalism had no such requirement, and was graduated with B.J. in 1923.

Joseph Pulitzer put in the foreign language requirement when founding the Columbia University school on the theory that every American newspaperman ought to know at least one foreign language. And he was correct. In my tests the instructors reported I rendered a readable translation "but too loose in meaning."

I'll spell out my trouble. In English you write, "Today I ought to have gone to the country." But the German arrangement is: "Today to the country I ought to have gone." In German the verbs pile up at the end of the sentence—and a half-baked reporter is never sure whether he went to the country, was about to go to the country, or possibly didn't go at all.

About the only way I'd learn a foreign language would be to go to another country, live with the natives, shun American tourists—and learn the hard way... by daily practice.

J. R. McKinley, who writes the column From This Small Corner in the De Queen Daily Citizen, reports he read the following in the Nashville (Tenn.) Banner:

"This should come as no good news to our mountain friends, but an Australian doctor says he believes that cancer of the throat can be traced to the drinking of moonshine whisky. We wonder, then, if the Surgeon General is going to require that warnings be placed on all jugs."

My comment is: If the horrible taste doesn't deter a moonshine drinker then labeling the jug is pure folly.

Costs rise is slowed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The rise in living costs slowed below President Nixon's target goal of 3 per cent in the first year of his wage-price control program, the government reported today.

"In the 12 months ending in August, the first year of the economic stabilization program, the Consumer Price Index rose 2.9 per cent. This compares with a rise of 4.4 per cent in the preceding 12-month period," the Bureau of Labor Statistics said.

The report said living costs in August rose two-tenths of one per cent, half the previous month's rise.

The bureau also reported that the average paycheck of some 50 million rank-and-file workers rose to $137.23 a week and that, after allowance for inflation, the past year's increase in purchasing power was the largest on record.

The report, marking the first anniversary of the Nixon economic controls, said the Consumer Price Index rose to 125.7 in August. This meant it cost $12.57 last month for every $10 worth of typical family spending five years ago.

The report said food prices rose three-tenths of one per cent in August and were 3.8 per cent higher than a year earlier.

Housing costs were up three-tenths of one per cent for the month and 3.8 per cent for the year; clothing declined two-tenths for the month and was up 1.5 per cent for the year; transportation rose two-tenths in August and was one per cent higher than a year ago; medical care was up two-tenths for the month and 2.2 per cent for the year; and recreation costs remained unchanged in August and were up 2.8 per cent over the year.

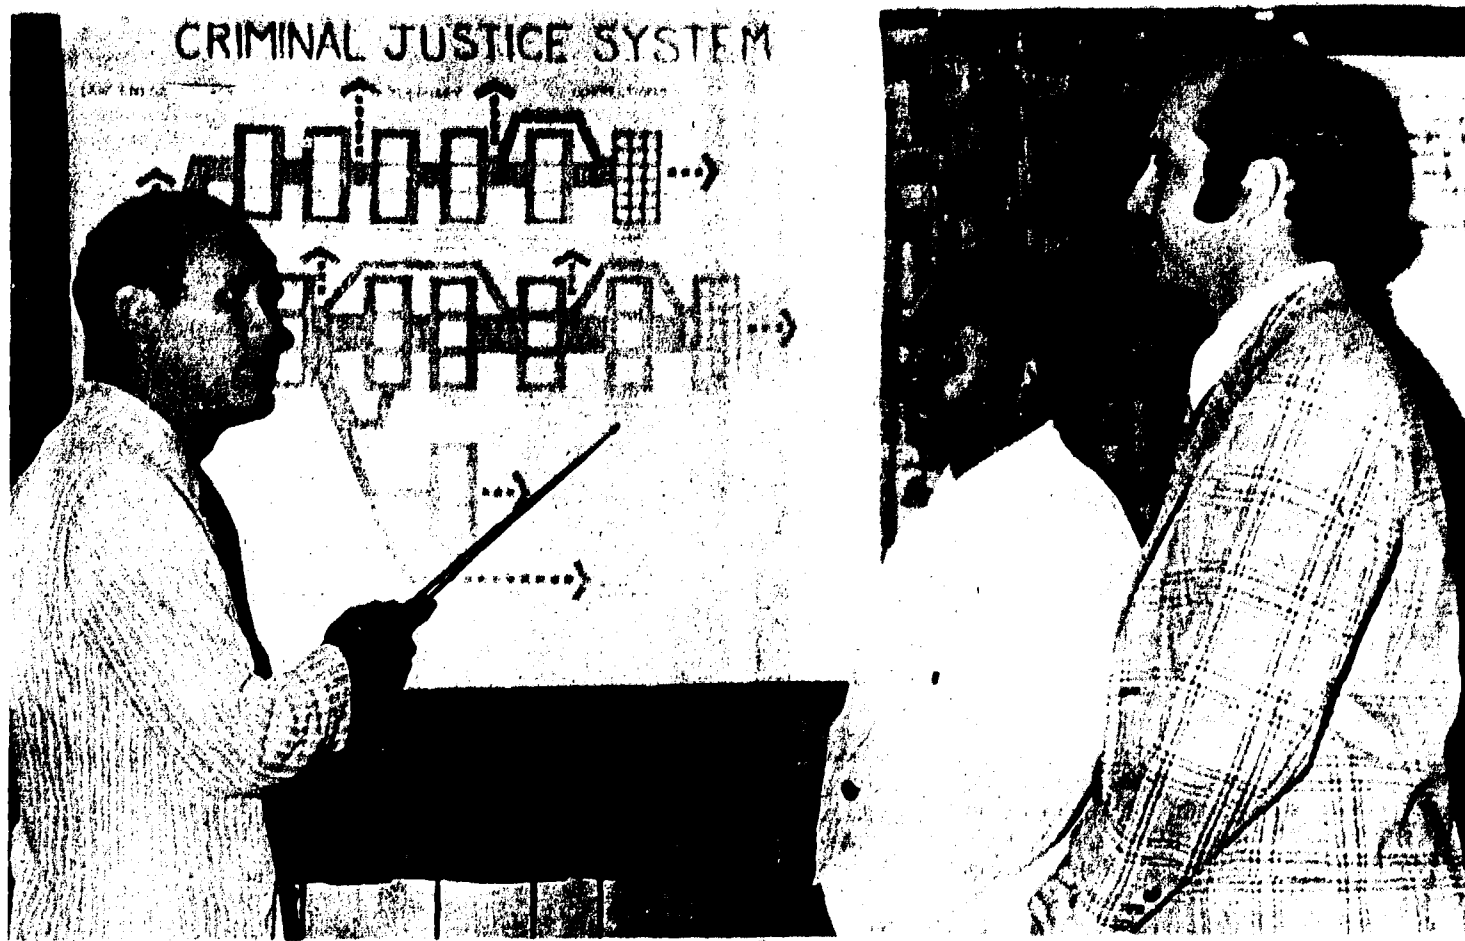

The bureau said grocery prices in August increased instead of declining slightly as they usually do for the month.

"Meat prices rose nine-tenths of one per cent, slightly more than the usual seasonal rise, but less than the increases in both June and July," the bureau said.

Dairy products, fruits and vegetables and poultry declined in price, the report said. "Gasoline prices rose sharply, reflecting changes in dealer discounts and the application of sales taxes in California to gasoline," the report said.

Prices for both new and used cars declined but less than usual for the month, the bureau said.

There were also increases in the cost of mortgage interest and property taxes, it said. "Movie admission charges declined for the first time in five months," it said.

Heads Criminal Justice System Seminar

Terrel Don Hutton, Arkansas commissioner of corrections, headed a program here Thursday on the "Criminal Justice Systems" for area law officers, and county and city officials. Pictured

George McGovern plans 'fireside chats'

DETROIT (AP) — After a day of troubles in his city-hopping presidential campaign, George McGovern has told of plans to talk to American voters by television in a series of quiet "fireside chats."

"I think we need some quiet, positive statements of what I believe—what my vision of the country is," he said.

He spoke to newsmen aboard his campaign jet as he headed to Detroit late Thursday after a day that ended in an abortive attempt to shake hands with New York subway commuters.

Today, he planned to speak to a labor gathering in Detroit, appear at a rally in Rochester, N.Y., and pay a night visit to a farmers' market in Pittsburgh. Thursday's New York appearances were plagued by what aides called poor planning.

McGovern, flanked by his current campaign sidekick, Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, drew 200 persons—by newsmen's count—to a street appearance in the densely populated, heavily Italian-American Red Hook section of Brooklyn. Several residents said no one had told them the candidate would be there.

The crowd was much larger at an appearance in Queens. In fact, it was too large and Secret Service bodyguards whisked McGovern and Muskie away with police sirens blaring and red lights flashing.

McGovern said later he had expected to shake hands of homeward-bound workers one by one as they emerged from a subway station at one of the city's busiest commuter exchange points.

But he had to abort those plans when he was mobbed by a pushing, shoving, boisterous crowd of young supporters. Adding to the melee were about 50 high-school-age youths who forayed out from a Nixon storefront headquarters a block away to heckle McGovern and engage in shouting matches and scuffles.

McGovern's basic campaign strategy has been centered on a strenuous travel schedule, usually hitting three cities each day in attempts to gain local newspaper, radio and television coverage.

Generally at each stop he delivers a standardized, wide-ranging attack on the Vietnam war, inflation, unemployment, taxes, wiretapping and other issues.

Fall of Brandt is expected

BONN (AP) — Chancellor Willy Brandt's government is expected to fall by his own hand today in an unprecedented parliamentary maneuver he triggered to seek re-election in November.

The lower house, or Bundestag, was first expected to ratify a Brandt treaty relaxing traffic restrictions between West and East Germany, a key element in the chancellor's bid to normalize relations with the Communists.

Renewing spirit of Freedom of Information Act is urged

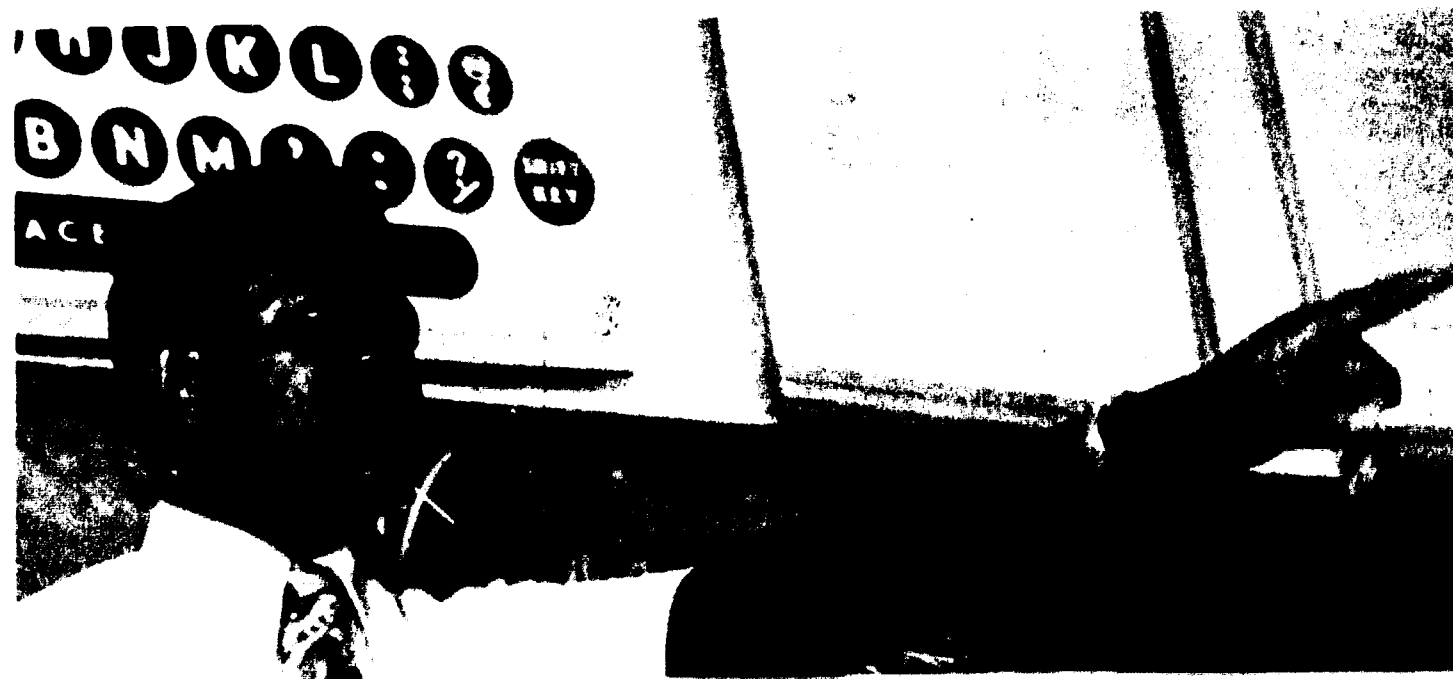

WASHINGTON (AP) — Saying an "entrenched bureaucracy is stubbornly resisting" the anticensorship commands of a right-to-know law, a House panel has urged reforming the letter and renewing the spirit of the Freedom of Information Act.

Federal officials "actually testified under oath that they had to balance the government's rights against the people's rights. The government, however, has no rights. It has only limited power delegated to it from 'We, the people,'" the House Government Operations Committee said Thursday.

A 46,000-word report on the impact and administration of the 5-year-old Freedom of Information Act was released by the committee which took sworn testimony from 142 witnesses in 41 days of public hearings.

The panel concluded there is a need "to strengthen and clarify (the law) to make it more effective and responsive to an open society."

The law, which took effect July 4, 1967, provides that any citizen may see a government document in the files, but lists specific categories of material which can be exempt from disclosure.

Stressing a point

R. D. Smith, corrections officer and counselor with the Oklahoma State Department of Justice, addressed several classes at Hope High School yesterday. Smith described to the students what life is like in the reformatory centers where he works. He has worked with the Justice Department for the past three years. Smith is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Smith Jr. of Hope.

Hexachlorophene is banned by FDA

WASHINGTON (AP)—Citing clear evidence that hexachlorophene can cause brain damage in babies the Food and Drug Administration today banned its use in most cosmetics and over the counter drugs.

The agency said that effective immediately 3 per cent hexachlorophene HCP solutions such as pHisoHex can be sold only by prescription.

Baby powder containing more than .75 per cent HCP must be recalled by manufacturers the FDA said and other infant products of the same strength must be removed from customer shelves and drug stores and be sold only on prescription.

The germ fighter used in a wide variety of cosmetics such as feminine hygiene sprays, toothpastes and aerosol deodorants will be limited in the future "as a preservative only at levels not to exceed .1 per cent the FDA said.

"There are presently no data to support a safe and effective over the counter use for hexachlorophene" the FDA said.

"Hexachlorophene as a prescription drug is not generally recognized as a safe and effective and thus is limited to use under an approved new drug application for bacteriostatic skin cleanser and for the control of an outbreak of gram positive staphylococcus infection where other infection control procedures have been unsuccessful."

The agency said it was basing its action on recent evidence that 39 French babies died as the result of baby powder accidentally contaminated with 6 per cent HCP.

The agency's decision is complicated by recent confirmation that infection outbreaks increased sixfold in hospital nurseries that stopped routine HCP bathing of newborn infants.

In fact, the FDA had delayed action until now on its January proposal to restrict the antibacterial skin cleanser to hospital and prescription use and ban its inclusion in vaginal deodorants.

The FDA's regulatory decision will have a large impact on the multimillion-dollar cosmetic industry.

Unconscious man found

Tom W. Dixon of Hope was discovered lying unconscious along the side of a dirt road just off U.S. Highway 67 six miles east of Hope early today, the State Police reported.

Dixon was discovered by a passing motorist who then notified authorities.

A Hempstead County Ambulance transferred Dixon to Branch Hospital in Hope where his condition is yet undetermined.

Four new targets hit by U.S. jets

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Air Force jets ranged between Hanoi and the Chinese border to attack four new targets, the 7th Air Force announced today. It was the first time since full-scale bombing resumed over North Vietnam that new targets had been hit. Meanwhile in South Vietnam, Communist-led forces attacked seven government positions as fighting spread closer to the capital of Quang Ngai province. Three of the targets for the first time in North Vietnam were military and storage areas north and northwest of Hanoi. Along the northwest rail line, F4 pilots using laser-guided bombs reported knocking out a rail bridge and a highway bridge 85 miles northwest of Hanoi and 65 miles below the Chinese border. The highway bridge was attacked for the first time. The U.S. Command reported that Air Force, Navy and Marine tactical fighter-bombers flew more than 280 strikes across North Vietnam Thursday. The Command announced the loss of the 102nd American jet over North Vietnam in the new bombing campaign. It said an Air Force RF4 reconnaissance jet was hit by antiaircraft fire this morning. The two crewmen parachuted into the Tonkin Gulf and were picked up by a rescue helicopter 45 minutes later. The fighting in Quang Ngai province marked the end of the first week of a North Vietnamese and Viet Cong offensive in the northern coastal province which is considered of little strategic value except for a stretch of Highway 1 running through it. An eight-mile stretch of Highway 1 was reported cut from Quang Ngai City, the province capital, southward to Fire Base Snoopy, an old American outpost. The city is 75 miles south of Da Nang. Associated Press correspondent Michael Putzel reported from Da Nang that two outposts just to the east and west of Quang Ngai city came under small arms attack. The outpost to the west was abandoned and radio contact was lost with the one to the east. About 15 militiamen were manning each outpost, but other details were not available. Enemy troops also struck near Ba To, 25 miles southwest of Quang Ngai city, and in the Duc Pho region along Highway 1, about 25 miles to the south-east. Near Ba To, North Vietnamese troops launched a heavy shelling attack then followed up with a ground assault against a South Vietnamese ranger camp manned by 400 defenders. The enemy forces failed to penetrate the perimeter and fighting tapered off just before dawn. In the Duc Pho area, heavy mortar barrages hit Fire Base Bronco and three outposts.

Sargent Shriver

Sarge Shriver is bounding out of family shadow

WASHINGTON (AP) — With healing balm and biting tongue, smooth salesmanship and outright mistakes, Sargent Shriver is bounding out of the shadow of the nation's most illustrious political family to battle the formidable defenses of the Nixon White House. "It's Shriver, Sargent Shriver," a Chicano mother waiting inside a roadside health center at San Ysidro, Calif., told her son in a mispronunciation which may define Shriver and his political style. The mother's remark came on the second day of a campaign for the vice presidency by this Kennedy-in-law, former ambassador to France, tennis-playing founder of the Peace Corps and father who tries to spend part of every weekend with his five children. Since that time, Shriver indeed has been striving. By his own words, Shriver, who has an instinct for the exuberant and unexpected, has felt himself caged by the requirements of Secret Service protection, by staff and by the demands of faceless schedulers back in Washington. In Green Bay, Wis., he went through the official greetings at the airport and then, with agents holding open the door of his car, marched to the end of the motorcade and into the press bus. With reporters leaning over the bus seats to hear, Shriver said jokingly: "Sometimes I think we should all get back on the plane, fly to Washington, drive out to Timberlawn and erect TV sets—one for San Francisco and one for Little Rock and one for the factory in Pittsburgh and one for the sawmill in Oregon ... Then we could just step from one to the other. We could have the same rallies. The same speeches." There are no stage sets at Timberlawn, the rolling estate Shriver rents in suburban Maryland. The factories are real, and Shriver tells the voters who work in them and the union leaders who represent them: "Richard Nixon has been a moral and economic disaster for labor ... Ordinary income earned in ordinary ways is already taxed enough ... It is time for money made by money to be taxed at the same rate as money made by men." The problems Shriver has

Politics '72: All candidates running

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS For the first time in the 1972 presidential campaign, all four major candidates are taking to the hustings today. President Nixon prepared to fly to Texas; Vice President Spiro T. Agnew is making a series of appearances in the South; Democratic presidential nominee George McGovern is in Detroit, and his running-mate, Sargent Shriver, is campaigning in New York. Agnew, just a few days into his official election effort, has responded sharply to McGovern's steady criticism of the Nixon administration's Vietnam policy. Dropping the low-key style he used earlier in the week, Agnew told a Republican rally in Chattanooga, Tenn., that McGovern is "parroting the propaganda of the North Vietnamese" in criticizing U.S. bombing. Thus, Agnew said, the Democrat is helping to destroy "the morale of thousands of Americans who are not in possession of the facts" about communist aggression. Meanwhile, Nixon was ready today to depart on his most important trip so far in the campaign—an overnight jaunt to Texas. The President planned to attend a reception and buffet dinner tonight for wealthy Democrats for Nixon at the Floresville ranch of John B. Connally, the former Democratic governor and Treasury secretary.

On the Democratic side, McGovern says he plans to talk to the voters by television in a series of quiet "fireside chats," alluding to the historic radio addresses of President Franklin D. Roosevelt. The South Dakota senator said Thursday night that he has been having trouble getting his message across to the people in "partisan" speeches at airport rallies and street crowds. McGovern made the statements to newsmen as his campaign jet headed to Detroit after a day of troubles in his city-hopping campaign. McGovern had barely flown out of New York City when running-mate Shriver flew in. Shriver immediately went to a private home for a fund-raising cocktail party. Shriver campaign aides said he was considering flying to Texas today for an appearance in Floresville—about seven miles from Connally's ranch, where Nixon was scheduled to be. Earlier Thursday, Shriver told the City Club of Cleveland that he hopes to "become the people's voice at the top of government." He maintained there is "too little representation of the people" in Washington. On another campaign front, Pat Nixon unveiled the cornerstone for a new building at a senior-citizen housing development in Riverside, Calif., and the event turned into a rally for her husband's re-election campaign.

KAY ELIZABETH FRANKS

Franks-Key vows are said in Methodist rite

The sanctuary of The First United Methodist Church of Magnolia was the setting for the Saturday afternoon, September 2nd, wedding of Miss Kay Elizabeth Franks to Daniel Henry Key of Houston, Tex.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert W. Franks of Magnolia. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. George Lively of Hope.

The Reverend Howard Williams officiated at the double ring ceremony before an altar enhanced with pedestal arrangements of yellow and white gladioli in urns on each side of the prayer bench and four seven-branched candelabra holding white tapers and yellow and white gladioli completing the arrangement. Pews were marked with yellow and white ribbon bows, yellow carnations and leather leaf fern.

Harold Switzer, organist, accompanied Mrs. Bobby Hall, soloist, who sang, "Because," "One Hand, One Heart" and the "Wedding Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal length gown of white silk organza, with venise lace flowers accentuating the empire bodice and short puff sleeves. The softly gathered skirt fell gracefully from her high rise waistline and was bordered along the hem in a ruffled flounce trimmed in venise lace. Forming her chapel train was a full length mantilla of silk illusion edged in lace and held in place by a bandeau of venise lace.

Her bridal bouquet was a nosegay of white daisy pom poms and yellow sweetheart roses accented with gypsophila. Tucked in her bouquet was a handkerchief which her mother, grandmother and great-grandmother had carried in their weddings. The bride carried out the traditional "something old, something new, something borrowed, something blue and a sixpence in her shoe. Her only jewelry was her mother's engagement ring.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Steve Bender of Fairhaven, Massachusetts, attended her as Matron of Honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Lisa Sawyer of Magnolia, and Mrs. Jerry Hartsfield of Little Rock. They wore floor length gowns of yellow crepe, with dainty green and yellow trim on the neckline, hem and short puff sleeves. Their white picture hats were trimmed in matching yellow velvet ribbon. They carried nosegays of yellow and white pom poms.

Miss Susan Baker of Texarkana, niece of the bride, served as flower girl. Her floor length gown was of green crepe similar to the bridesmaids, with matching picture hat trimmed in green velvet. She carried a small white basket trimmed with yellow ribbon and filled with rose petals.

Serving the groom as best man was Jack Fountain of Arkadelphia. Groomsmen were Joe Bufkin, the groom's brother-in-law of Hope and Jerry Wayne Hartsfield of Little Rock. Ushers were Preston Lively, brother of the groom and Joe Bufkin of Hope.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Helen Keller was a blind and deaf American author and lecturer who gave inspiration to the handicapped. The World Almanac notes that Ann Sullivan, her companion for 49 years, taught her to communicate by feeling objects and associating them with words spelled out by finger signals on her palm. Her efforts aided in removing handicapped persons from institutions.

Helen Help Us!

The A.B.C.s of S.E.X.

Dear Helen:
All six of us were in the same crowd at school and remained friends until two years ago. We'll call ourselves Mr. and Mrs. A., Mr. and Mrs. B., and Mr. and Mrs. C. (us).

The break came when Mr. A. and Mrs. B. had a torrid affair. Their mates found out, took their respective spouses back, but the four avoid each other socially, which makes it difficult for us because we still remain good friends with both couples.

We think it's silly, holding a grudge when a romance is long dead, and we'd like to get back to the pleasant sixsome we had before it became."

A good way, my husband feels, it to invite the As and Bs to our "pool-warming." We've just added a new heated pool to our back yard and plan a party around it. Very informal—drinks and snacks and people dropping in for swims all afternoon and early evening. He believes that if the two couples happen on to each other, without warning, they'll realize bygone can be buried. He forgets that Mrs. A. is quite possessive and Mr. B. has a violent temper.

I'm not sure. What do you think? —WANTS A WARMING, NOT A WAR

Dear WNNW:

People who try to heal wounds at drinking parties usually end up battle-scarred. Let the As and Bs solve their own jealousy problems, and play it safe by inviting one couple for an afternoon swim, the other to your evening dip—and tell them why!

Believe me, S.E.X. is not as easy as A.B.C., when the alphabet gets scrambled. —H.

Dear Helen:

Our neighbors have a dog that weighs about 200 pounds. His favorite resting place is in our vegetable garden, where he also digs. Result: no garden! Their general attitude is "So what?"

They won't tie him up, and they say they'll only build a fence if we pay for half of it. We just bought a car and can't afford money for fencing their yard. It would have to be super-strong, expensive material.

Is there any way, outside of calling the dog pound, to keep that darn animal at home?

Repellent doesn't taze him. — DOGGED GARDENERS

Dear Gardeners:
"Keeping pets home" is the owners' responsibility. If your neighbors won't assume it—and retrain their animal, or pen him up—then after due warning, you have every right to call the pound. —H.

Dear Helen:
I wish I were capable of writing an etiquette book, as you suggest, Helen, titled, "Broken Branches of the Family Tree." Most divorced persons aren't as lucky as the former daughter-in-law of the woman who wrote concerning their continuing friendship (and "How do I introduce her to my friends?").

I speak for many girls when I say that usually, where the sons remarry, the ex-daughters-in-law are excluded from the family, even though they were well liked before. If there are children, they visit Grandma and Grandpa only when their Daddy has them on weekends. It seems we first wives are easier to hide as "skeletons in the closet." A locked closet, that is.

I was very close to my ex's family and it was a shock to learn I had lost them. A divorce is devastating enough—but the blow that finishes some of us off is realizing that people you THOUGHT loved you as a daughter now act as though you don't exist.

One suggestion to the still-friendly "Ex-Mother-in-Law": If you still consider your son's first wife your "daughter," why not introduce her as such? Since she is your grand-children's mother, is she not a "blood relative"? —BROKEN BRANCH

Nursing students complete training

Mrs. Lorene Gathright and Miss Bertha Carrigan, graduates of the 1971 class in practical nursing, were honored with a coffee along with the 1972 graduates who completed their eight months of clinical experience at Hempstead Memorial Hospital. The four new graduates are: Mrs. Peggy Purtle, Miss Carolyn Williams, Mrs. Fern Wickliffe, and Miss Mary Shaw. Each new graduate will be employed at Hempstead Memorial Hospital.

The hospital offers a comprehensive training program which includes classes each afternoon on theory and practice of nursing and on-the-job training during the morning. Each student spends no less than a month in surgery to observe and assist; one month in the nursery and in obstetrical nursing; a month on medications and treatments, plus additional work in labor and delivery rooms, geriatrics, dietetics, recovery room, and general nursing. The clinical instructor is Mrs. Elizabeth Rogers, a graduate of Grady Memorial Hospital, Atlanta, Georgia.

Also offered was a 50 hour course in cardiac care. A 14 hour course in pharmacology was taught by Doug Haney. The best possible training for practical nurses is another community service that Hempstead Memorial Hospital offers.

After 22 years in nursing, Mrs. Hazel Underwood retired at the end of August. She is a graduate of the Baptist Memorial Hospital, Memphis.

Prior to her nursing career she was a teacher at Spring Hill. For the past six years she has taught at Red River Vocational School. She was honored with a coffee and gifts by her former students at Hempstead Memorial Hospital.

To celebrate 50th anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Cross of 1218 Lakeshore Drive will observe their 50th wedding anniversary with an open house in the Douglas Building on Texas Street on Saturday, September 30. Due to Mrs. Cross' health, the open house will be between the hours of 1 and 2 p.m.

Hosts for the occasion will be their children, C.L. (Bill) Cross, Jacksonville, Tenn., Dean Cross, Lawrenceburg, Tenn., Mrs. Dan Marsalis, Corpus Christi, Tex., and Mrs. Hubert Bright, Wickett, Tex. Friends and relatives of the couple are invited to attend.

Ladies Night is observed at Country Club

Ladies Only Night was held at the Hope Country Club on Wednesday, September 20. It was the first time this type of outing had been held by the members, and it proved to be successful. The 20 who gathered for a Dutch Treat dinner laid the ground-work for future plans for regular meetings.

Something new under the California sun

Always favored for out of hand snacking, those lush table grapes from California's fertile valleys now add a fruity new flavor dimension to a made-from-scratch cake. You'll be proud of this aromatic cake, redolent with pureed grapes, nuts, raisins and spices. Grape Cake combines the best of two favorites — fresh and dried California table grapes. The spicy aroma of this cake is irresistible while baking. And a slice of homemade cake is an unbeatable treat for family as well as those lucky friends of yours!

CALIFORNIA GRAPE CAKE

2 cups Thompson seedless grapes	2 teaspoons salt
2 cups granulated sugar	1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
3/4 cup shortening	1 teaspoon soda
2 teaspoons grated orange rind	1 teaspoon cinnamon
4 eggs, separated	1/2 teaspoon each nutmeg and allspice
3/2 cups sifted all-purpose flour	1/4 teaspoon cloves
	1 cup seedless raisins
	1 cup chopped walnuts

Preheat oven to 325 degrees. Turn grapes into blender jar and blend at high speed about 2 minutes to make 1 1/4 cups puree. Set aside. Cream 1 1/2 cups sugar with shortening and orange rind in large bowl. Beat egg yolks into mixture, one at a time. Sift together flour, salt, baking powder, soda and spices. Add parts of flour mixture and grape puree alternately to creamed mixture. Add raisins and nuts. Place egg whites in large bowl; beat at highest speed until stiff. Gradually beat in remaining 1/2 cup sugar to make a meringue. Fold lightly into batter. Turn into greased and floured 10-inch bundt or tube pan. Bake in preheated oven until cake tester comes out clean, about one hour and fifteen minutes. Allow cake to stand 10 minutes on cooling rack; turn cake out on rack. Dust with powdered sugar, if desired.

Hoople's choices---

Texas, Notre Dame, Trojans to win; Kentucky upset choice over 'Bama

By MAJOR AMOS B. HOOPLE

Peerless Prognosticator

Egad, friends, we have some tasty piekin tidbits in store for you this week. Two of the nation's perennial powers — Texas and Notre Dame are slated to see action for the first time. Top-ranked Southern California will go for the third win in a row, as will rugged Colorado and surprising UCLA. Every-where you look on Saturday there's a big game on tap.

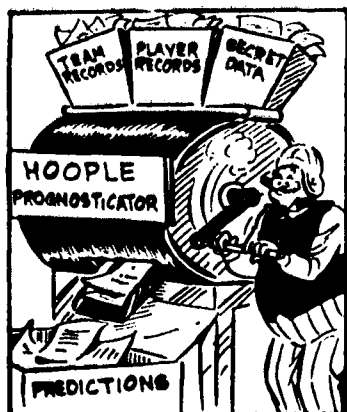

Here's the way the Hoople System sees some of these biggies.

Darrell Royal's Texas Longhorns will make it rough on the Miami Hurricanes as they repulse the invaders, 26-21. At the same time Ara Parseghian will take the wraps off his '72 Irish eleven meeting strong Northwestern in Evanston. Our date—kaff—indicates a close 22-16 triumph for Notre Dame — um-kumph!

Southern California's Trojans with two impressive wins behind them will chalk up another by thrashing Illinois 29-8 on the latter's home grounds. It will be the same story for powerful Colorado which is the Hoople choice to whip Minnesota when these two fine institutions meet for the first time on the gridiron.

For surprising UCLA there is a surprise in store. The Uclans, who shocked Nebraska and narrowly whipped Pittsburgh, are in for a bit of shock themselves when they entertain Michigan in the Los Angeles Coliseum. Our scouts, Jack Wolverine and Golden Gates, who have been watching these clubs for us, see Michigan finishing on the long end of a 15-12 count—har-rumph!

Another astonishing result is foreseen for the clash of Johnny Ray's rejuvenated Kentucky Wildcats and Bear Bryant's Bama Boys in Birmingham. The Wildcats with sparkling newcomer quarterback Dinky McKay at the controls will upset the Crimson Tide, 17-14. Yes, dear readers, that's what's in the cards.

The Old Boy Himself

Other contests worthy of note will find Arkansas stopping Oklahoma State, 30-20; Nebraska leveling Army, 33-7; Stanford walloping Duke, 35-12; high-scoring SMU rolling over Florida, 35-8; LSU taking Texas A&M, 28-22, and mighty Oklahoma shading a fine Oregon team, 35-28.

In a bruising Mid-American Conference battle the Miami Redskins will edge the visiting Bowling Green Falcons. Your Peerless Prognosticator confidently picks the Redskins to prevail, 22-18 over the B-G Falcons who last week upended Purdue! —Now go on with the forecast.

Hogs get a crack at OSU Saturday

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A quick glance at the Oklahoma State University game film and you would have thought someone pulled a fast one.

"They look just like Texas," says Arkansas assistant coach Mervin Johnson. "They're wearing burnt orange uniforms like Texas and running Texas' offense."

Texas' offense is the Wishbone-T. OSU switched to the Wishbone late last spring and set a school record 580 yards rushing in a season opening 21-3 victory over the University of Texas-Arlington.

Arkansas, extremely successful in halting Texas' Wishbone last year, gets a crack at OSU here Saturday night.

Texas entered the Arkansas game last year averaging 320 yards a game rushing. The Longhorns, hampered by injuries and the Razorbacks, netted only 140 yards on the ground.

Any secret?
"We just had great and good recognition," said Johnson, the Razorbacks' defensive coordinator. "Maybe we weren't fooled as badly as we had been in previous years with the deception."

Johnson says the Wishbone is a "fantastic offense."

"It's a kind of a goal line offense and you have to involve your secondary more in a run, but by the same token you've got to really be careful," Johnson said. "You get used to coming up and you get in hot water in a hurry when they go deep."

Arkansas opened its season Sept. 9, losing 31-10 to the University of Southern California — a team that operates from the pro-type offense.

"There is a real adjustment, especially for the secondary, in adjusting from the pro type set to the Wishbone, back to the pro set and then back to the Wishbone," Johnson said. "Looking at the schedule, that is the kind of adjustment we are going to have to make week after week."

OSU's Wishbone is in the hands of quarterback Brent Blackman.

"We remember him from last year," Johnson said. "He is awfully hard to tackle and his ability in the open field is frightening."

Last year, Blackman hustled the Cowboys 60 yards in five plays for a second quarter touchdown that tied the score 10-10. Blackman darted the final 13 yards himself. Arkansas quarterback Joe Ferguson moved the Razorbacks 80 yards to a touchdown in the final seconds of the half and Arkansas went on to a 31-10 victory. The triumph was the Razorbacks' 14th in their last 15 meetings with OSU.

Blackman gained 173 yards on 12 carries against Arlington Fountain Smith contributed 123 and George Palmer added 99. The point spread over Arlington probably would have been much greater, but the Cowboys fumbled seven times.

Arkansas will start essentially the same defense that opened against USC although John Moseley is expected to replace the injured Jim Irwin at left cornerback.

Offensively, the Razorbacks are still searching for a full-back.

Mike Saint, a senior, and Marsh White, a sophomore, played against USC, but neither is expected to compete against the Cowboys. Saint has a sprained toe and White has a hip pointer.

The starter is expected to be either Scott Bull or Hal Hirschfeld, both sophomores.

A sellout crowd of more than 53,000 is expected for the 7:30 p.m. CDT kickoff.

Cats journey to Fairview

By ALAN FOSTER
Star Sports Writer

Hope is now 3-0. They lead the conference along with Magnolia and Malvern. People are finally taking the Bobcats serious as a contender for the title. This will make Hope's journey to Fairview just that much more important.

Tonight the Cats face their first conference road game as they take on the Camden Fairview Cardinals.

The Cardinals are 0-3. They haven't been impressive at all in their first three games. How does a 3-0 team get mentally ready for a game of this sort? Ask any Bobcat and his reply is likely to be "You've gotta want it." Also Hope knows that Fairview can be especially tough when they have the home advantage.

Let's go back a minute now. When the Bobcats were conference champs in 1968 what was the final score in that Hope-Fairview game? If you'll check back, I think you'll find that Fairview blew Hope off the field and humiliated them 29-0.

The Cats are ready. The stage is set for another Friday night of football.

College predictions

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The University of Arkansas will have tradition on its side Saturday night against Oklahoma State University.

The Razorbacks, who opened the season with a 31-10 loss to the University of Southern California, have won 14 of their last 15 meetings with OSU and haven't lost two regular season games in a row since 1967.

The last time OSU beat Arkansas was in 1967, 7-6. The next week, the Razorbacks dropped a 14-12 decision to Tulsa.

OSU opened the 1972 season last week with a 21-3 victory over the University of Texas-Arlington despite seven fumbles.

"We look at the Arkansas game as a great opportunity but we have to grow up—and do it in a hurry," says OSU Coach Dave Smith.

OSU set a school record of 580 yards rushing against Arlington—the Cowboys' first game in the Wishbone offense.

"I'm very concerned about the Wishbone," says Arkansas Coach Frank Broyles. "Oklahoma State executed very well as evidenced by its statistics and would have scored a lot of points had not they sustained seven fumbles."

Quarterback Brent Blackman, who made 173 yards on 12 carries against Arlington, directs the OSU Wishbone. Arkansas was extremely successful defending against Texas' Wishbone last year.

The Cowboys are still learning the intricacies of the Wishbone. If the Razorbacks have forgotten USC, they may further OSU's education.

ARKANSAS 24, OSU 10.

Arkansas State University got back on the winning track last week against Eastern New Mexico but shouldn't be deceived by the 0-2 record of this week's opponent, Wichita State.

The Wheatshockers lost to Texas A&M and then fell 10-9 to Tulsa when a late field goal attempt was wide. ASU has scored two straight victories over which is certain to stick in the Wheatshockers' craw.

A tough one to pick, but the Indians are at home.

ASU 17, WICHITA STATE 14.

Last week's record was 4-4, dropping the season percentage to .667.

Here are other predictions involving college teams in Arkansas:

Arkansas Tech 20, Southeast Missouri 17.

State College of Arkansas 13, Texas Lutheran 7.

UA-Monticello 27, St. Benedicts 19.

Southern State 20, Mississippi College 10.

Quantic 27, UA-Pine Bluff 14.

Champagne flows in Pirate celebration

By TOM EMORY
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Pittsburgh Pirates played hard all season and now it was time to pop off. So they popped off the tops of champagne bottles, a few soft drinks and one bottle of red wine.

The Pirates held a celebration Thursday night after winning the National League East title for the third straight year. They beat the New York Mets 6-2 and the victory was welcome relief for a team that had lost four of its last five games.

More champagne went for showers than for thirst in the Pittsburgh dressing room. Winning pitcher Steve Blass had some poured down his pants; Manager Will Virdon got a champagne shampoo; and then all of the players joined in the pennant party with drinks, music and laughter.

Virdon slipped away to a quiet corner, sipped some red wine and said the season had been just beautiful.

"Winning a division title is the hardest thing to do because it takes so long to do it," the rookie manager said. "Of course, it's harder on the players than it is on me, but it's still a long season for everybody."

The Pirates scored five runs in the third inning after getting one run without a hit in the first. In the third, the big glow was a two-run single by Richie Hebner. Roberto Clemente, Milt May and Bob Robertson also drove in runs.

The clincher Thursday night was the earliest of the three titles for the Pirates. In 1970, they won on Sept. 27 and in 1971, they won on Sept. 22.

In the only other NL game, Philadelphia beat St. Louis 3-1. In the American League, Detroit thumped Boston 10-3, Milwaukee downed New York 6-4 and California topped Kansas City 4-2.

Detroit blasted Boston for four runs in the first and third innings, three runs coming on a single by winning pitcher Joe Coleman, 18-13. The Boston loss cuts its lead in the AL East to less than one percentage point over the Tigers. In percentages, it's Boston .545 and Detroit .544, and that's close.

Boston started rookie Mike Garman, who came up from Louisville in the International League on Sept. 1. Manager Eddie Kasko defended his position even though Garman lasted just one-third of an inning and was hit for three runs.

"I had to gamble," said Kasko. "I wanted to start a right-hander and I had three left. Garman had looked good in relief."

Johnny Briggs hit a homer, double and single and drove in three runs for the Brewers. The loss was the fifth in six games for New York. Bernie Allen homered for the Yankees.

Bob Oliver hit a homer and triple to lead California over Kansas City. Nolan Ryan broke a three-game personal losing streak and recorded his 17th victory. His four strikeouts increased his major league-leading total to 290.

Philadelphia scored two runs in the eighth on a three-base error by St. Louis first baseman Ted Simmons. The runs broke a 1-1 tie. Bob Boone homered for Philadelphia.

Outfielder Bill Robinson with the Philadelphia Phillies formerly played for the New York Yankees.

Fighting Irish will unveil quarterback

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Fighting Irish of Notre Dame, who annually recall the legends of Knute Rockne, make their delayed start in the 1972 college football campaign against Northwestern Saturday.

A Dyche Stadium crowd of 55,000 is expected at Evanston, Ill. to watch the Irish unveil a sophomore quarterback, Tom Clements, against a Northwestern team that held Michigan to 7-0 a week ago.

"We will have to put more points on the board this season while our defensive unit gets a chance to establish itself," said Ara Parseghian, the latest in succession to famed coach Rocke who first made the Irish a national power 50 in the 1920s.

Without playing a game the Irish were ranked 13th in this week's Associated Press poll to the top-ranked Southern California Trojans who have already whipped Arkansas and Oregon State.

The Trojans go after their third in a row against Illinois at Champaign, Ill. The powerful Trojans are heavily favored following their 51-6 rout of Oregon State last week.

Oklahoma's Sooners, ranked second, entertain Oregon while No. 3 Colorado plays at Minnesota. Fourth-ranked Ohio State is idle with fifth-ranked Tennessee playing host to Wake Forest.

Other games involving teams in the AP Top Ten find No. 12 Michigan at No. 6 UCLA, night; No. 7 Alabama vs. Kentucky at Birmingham, Ala., night; Texas A&M at No. 8 Louisiana State; No. 9 Nebraska at Army and Kansas State at No. 10 Arizona State, night.

Penn State, ranked 11th entertains Navy and the Nittany Lions will try to bounce back after their opening game setback by Tennessee.

In other games involving the AP Second Ten, Miami of Florida is at No. 14 Texas; No. 15 Washington is at Purdue; No. 16 Georgia is at Tulane; Virginia Tech is at No. 17 Florida State; Georgia Tech is at No. 18 Michigan State; No. 19 Stanford is at Duke and No. 20 Mississippi is at South Carolina in a night tussle.

There will be four regional televised games this week instead of one on a national hook-up. The four regional televised games are Nebraska at Army, Georgia at Tulane, Stanford at Duke and Bowling Green at Miami, Ohio.

AMERICAN LEAGUE
BATTING (375 at bats)—

LSU Tigers face Texas Aggies

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — There's the T-formation, the split-T, the winged-T and, more recently the wishbone offense in college football. And Louisiana State coach Charlie McClendon minces no words on the Texas A&M "hasbone" offense his Tigers will face Saturday night.

LSU opened its season with an impressive, even if rough-edged, 31-13 victory over University of Pacific last Saturday night, good enough to earn the Bayou Bengals the No. 8 spot in this week's Associated Press poll of College teams. And the Bengals will be heavily favored, by something like three touchdowns, to make the Aggies conquest No. 2.

Texas A&M, under Emory

Bellard who perfected the wishbone attack while an assistant at the University of Texas, has his hands full getting his Texans ready for LSU. A&M whipped Wichita State 36-13 in the season's debut but took a 37-7 whipping from Nebraska last Saturday.

Bellard was not hesitant to compare Nebraska, national champion for the last two years, and LSU, both of which he said "have great personnel, a lot of depth, and they are both well coached."

He said his team didn't play well against Nebraska—Aggie fumbles at their 11-and 15-yard lines led to quick Nebraska scores—and he apparently figures things won't be much easier against the Tigers.

Bobkittens win again

By RICKY FAWCETT
Star Sports Writer

Using the big play, the Hope Bobkittens picked up victory, 12-6, last night over Arkadelphia. The win raised Hope's record to two wins and one loss.

Hope opened the scoring with a big play. With 1:15 left in the first quarter, Mark Harris hit Jimmy Williams with a 66-yard bomb. The two point conversion was unsuccessful, but Hope had a 6-0 lead.

The action again started in the third quarter. After a punt and penalty, Hope made camp at the Beaver 42. Harris hit Williams again with 5:26 left in the quarter for the score. The conversion was short but Hope still had a 12-0 lead.

Hope's defense gave the Beavers nothing but trouble all night. Arkadelphia's lone score came on a blocked punt. Levon Todd broke through, blocked the punt, and raced 35 yards for the score. The PAT was blocked and the Bobkittens led 12-6 with 6:19 left in the game.

Each team made one more threat later but both were killed by interceptions.

Next week Hope plays Texarkana College Hill for their first home game of the season.

Texas Longhorns open season

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Southwest Conference champion Texas opens its 80th football season Saturday in the friendly confines of Memorial Stadium against Miami while Texas Christian also finally gets underway with an inter-sectional bout against Indiana.

The Longhorns, who have won 19 consecutive home games, and the Horned Frogs are the last of the Southwest Conference teams to begin the 1972 campaign.

Other matchups include Baylor at Missouri, Southern Methodist at Florida, Clemson at Rice, Oklahoma State at Arkansas, Texas A&M at Louisiana State, Texas Tech at New Mexico and Houston at Tulsa.

All eyes will be on the quarterback situation at Texas where Alan Lowry, a converted defensive back, takes over the helm in his senior year.

Behind Lowry is freshman Marty Atkins of Gregory-Portland.

In 79 openers, the Longhorns have lost on seven. Roosevelt Leaks, an explosive sophomore fullback, is the main Longhorn threat from the triple option.

"The running of Leaks has been outstanding in every scrimmage," says Texas Coach Darrell Royal.

Miami comes into the game crippled, losing quarterback Kary Baker with a broken ankle in last week's loss to Florida State. The 'Horns will be without the services of offensive right guard Travis Roach, who has been battling a kidney stone problem. It's a night game—the first in rebuilt Memorial Stadium. Texas is a three-touchdown pick.

TCU is on the road at Bloomington, Ind., and there are high hopes for Coach Billy Toffill's crew. Indiana is a slim favorite on the basis of its opening victory over Minnesota.

The Horned Frogs hopes rest on sophomore fullback Mike Luttrell, linebacker Dede Tervoren and frosh running back Ronnie Littleton of Wichita Falls.

Baylor is a touchdown underdog in a day game at Columbia, Mo., while SMU is a three-point favorite over Florida based on an impressive opening week performance against Wake Forest.

"This SMU team has unreal speed at their skill positions and exceptional size in the line," says Florida Coach Doug Dickey. "It will be a tough test for us. SMU is fast, strong and experienced."

The Mustangs hope to turn loose the M&M Boys, Alvin Maxson and Wayne Morris, who had a field day against Wake Forest. It's a night game at Tampa, Fla.

Clemson and Rice renew an old rivalry in a night game in Rice Stadium. Clemson leads the series first begun in 1949 by a 3-2 count. The Owls had a week of rest after their 14-13 victory over Houston. The Tigers blanked The Citadel 13-0 last week.

NEW YORK (AP) — Sargent Shriver planned a rush-hour handshaking stop in a New York subway today while contemplating a quick trip to Texas to try and upstage John Connally's ranch party for President Nixon.

The Shriver campaign staff didn't know early today if the Democratic vice presidential candidate would fly to Texas but he cancelled a stop scheduled today in Providence, R.I.

His New York politicking was to range from a Manhattan subway stop to a Bronx supermarket and an outdoor rally in Queens.

Awaiting him in South Texas, if he chose to accept, was a tamalada—a Mexican-American gathering normally dedicated to eating tamales and beans, drinking beer and, in season, talking politics.

The location: the Wilson County Courthouse grounds in Floresville, seven miles from Connally's ranch where at about the same time the former Treasury secretary waits to welcome Nixon and 350 other guests. Connally is rounding up Democrats for Nixon and is supposed to have 200 in tow for the ranch party.

Connally, a rich man with longtime oil connections, has become a favorite target of Shriver and presidential nominee George McGovern during the campaign.

If he accepts the tamalada invitation, Shriver would be mingling with a Mexican-American crowd of voters while Nixon and Connally greet rich Texas Republicans and prominent Democratic defectors.

Shriver presumably would use the contrast to dramatize the Democratic ticket's repeated characterizations of Nixon as the rich man's candidate.

BAND BOOSTERS

Editor The Star: We have noted that there has been a great deal of publicity given to the Hope High School Marching Band by both the Hope Star and Radio Station KXAR. In behalf of the Band Boosters and the students of the band, we want to publicly thank you for your part in making the people of Hope more aware of the band. Many people not closely associated with the band do not realize the tremendous number of hours and the hard work that these students and their directors must put into the half time shows which they present at each football game.

It is a great pleasure to view our band as it stands at attention in perfect formation awaiting its turn on the field and then hear the tremendous response from the crowd as the Drum Major's whistle signals the start of the show. As one watches during the game, he can again become aware of the importance of the band as they play the fight song of a lively march to liven up the tempo of the game or as the drum section accompanies the cheerleaders to liven up the whole stadium. It would be rather boring and monotonous to attend a football game and not have the sound of a band.

The band has recently appeared in several parades in other towns. This reflects the spirit and spreads the good will of our town and school. These kids are great ambassadors for all of us and we are proud to work with them.

We welcome anyone to join us in our endeavor to boost Hope's School Bands. Most sincerely,
HOPE BAND BOOSTERS

Patrols into Lebanon likely

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israeli authorities say regular patrols may be instituted deep inside Lebanese territory if the Beirut government allows Arab guerrillas to continue to use the region as a springboard for attacks against the Jewish state.

Israeli forces have patrolled the area north of the Israeli border known as Fatahland, named for the largest guerrilla organization, for several months. So far they have remained within sight of the frontier.

But Israeli experts in Tel Aviv said Thursday these patrols may be extended to reach 15 miles inside Lebanon up to the Litani River.

The two-day raid last weekend by hundreds of Israeli troops into Lebanon against the guerrillas penetrated at least 15 miles in spots.

The raids drove most of the guerrillas out of the area. Regular Lebanese army units moved in when the Israelis left and they have stopped some of the guerrillas from returning. A Lebanese army patrol clashed with the guerrillas Thursday and two soldiers and one guerrilla were shot in a village 80 miles south of Beirut, according to reports reaching Cyprus.

The semi-official Egyptian newspaper Al Ahram warned the Israeli raids may be related to getting a stronger bargaining position before an alleged Soviet-American deal on the Mideast is completed.

Editor Mohamed Hassanein Haikal wrote that during a trip through Europe he heard of a Soviet-American agreement which would go into effect after the U.S. elections in November.

Meanwhile, Israeli police arrested 16 suspected Palestinian guerrillas in the occupied West Bank of Jordan.

A spokesman in Tel Aviv also reported 12 deadly letter-bombs have been found in Israel, most addressed to officials of the Jewish agency which handles affairs with world Jewry. None of the bombs detonated.

He said five additional bombs were found in Buenos Aires and three in Zaire, the former Belgian Congo.

They were all similar to the bombs addressed to Israeli diplomats and found in various European cities and in New York and Montreal. All had been mailed from Amsterdam, but only one of them went off. That one killed an Israeli in London Tuesday.

In another development, a State Department spokesman in Washington said some of the arms supplied to Palestinian terrorists were provided by North Korea.

The arms are of Soviet and Chinese origin, spokesman Charles Bray said, but he did not name any of the organizations which have received the aid. He also said other Communist countries are "providing assistance of this kind," but he did not give their names.

Riley called 'do-nothing'

JONESBORO, Ark. (AP) — Ken Coon of Fort Smith, Republican candidate for lieutenant governor, said here Thursday that his Democratic opponent, Lt. Gov. Bob Riley, has a "do-nothing" record in office.

The GOP nominee said the office traditionally produces little for Arkansas, but that Riley's term has "exaggerated this fact."

If elected, Coon pledged to work toward "concrete, tangible results that the people of Arkansas can put their hands on." He said such results had been lacking under Riley.

"If I cannot produce results, I don't think I would personally want to stay on," Coon said.

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB

Depression is not same as sadness

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—Would you please write something about depression. I'm 42, married, have three healthy children, and no problems to speak of, a good husband and few children problems. I get depressed occasionally, and I'm simply awful at this time. I say things I'm sorry for later and am terribly embarrassed about it after I come out of it. I dwell on the past—things that may have hurt me. I know this is wrong but I can't help myself. I've actually thought of suicide. It's especially bad around my period. I am on the pill and thought that maybe this aggravated my depression, but actually I started getting this way in my 30s before I took the pill.

I spoke to my doctor and he gave me a tranquilizer which helped, but I don't want to take medicine all my life. I fight the depression when I feel it coming on. Just the smallest comment can put me into one. I thought perhaps it was being aggravated by starting the menopause and I asked my doctor about this and he said "Ah, you're too young for that." There must be other people like me, I certainly can't be one of a kind. I forgot to mention that my sister has been in a mental hospital and there are times when I think my mother should be hospitalized as a mental patient. Did I inherit this and am I mentally ill?

Dear Reader—There is a great difference between having a true depression and being sad or just sensitive. A person who has a depression has a profound sense of lack of self worth and tends to depreciate himself and is not just "sad." Even body movements and mental thinking are slowed and the face is often expressionless.

The confusion is made worse by the common habit of referring to sadness as being "depression." Being overly sensitive to other individual's comments or events is something else again and a real psychotic depression is usually not helped by tranquilizers. It takes more.

Women's moods do change in relation to their cycle and women who tend to have emotional disturbances appear to have more trouble on the pill and certainly at the menopause.

Incidentally, you are not too young to have the menopause. Many women start the menopause in their 30s and a few even in their latter 20s (the latter is relatively rare).

Although true psychotic depressions are not inherited, there is an increased likelihood for a person to have them if other members of the family have such a disorder.

Anyone who has reasonable evidence of a depression or a real depressive state deserves early psychiatric attention. Much can be done to help. New medicines have been developed to elevate patient's moods and in certain cases electric shock therapy is indicated.

It is true that some individuals with these problems are suicide prone. Your letter isn't conclusive evidence that you have depression, but if you're really concerned about the problem, why don't you ask your doctor to refer you to a psychiatrist?

Rate increase review voided

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A regulation was adopted Thursday by the state Public Service commission that apparently will void automatic reviews by the federal Price Commission of any utility rate increase granted in Arkansas.

The regulation, drafted in consultation with the Price Commission staff, establishes certain conditions for granting rate increases and is aimed at preventing increases that would violate federal price guidelines.

Now, utility rate increases granted by state and federal regulatory agencies are reviewed by the Price Commission before they go into effect. If the Price Commission approves the new regulation, that no longer will be necessary.

The general counsel of the Price Commission has assured the PSC that he would recommend approval of the regulation.

The new rule says that a utility seeking a rate increase must show that the increase is justified by existing costs and not by expected inflation in the future, that it is the minimum required to assure safe service and to provide for needed expansion, that it will achieve the minimum rate of return needed to attract capital at reasonable cost and not impair the utility's credit, that the increase does not stand on increases beyond those allowed by the federal guidelines, and that it takes into account anticipated gains in productivity.

TO THE CITIZEN'S OF HEMPSTEAD COUNTY

Construction on the Lewisville-Hope Road, State Highway 29, Section 3, in Hempstead County has begun. The project begins in Evening Shade near the junction of Highway 355 and extends northerly mostly on new location, along the existing roadway to the City of Hope, a distance of approximately 5.56 miles.

Due to the nature of this work there will be several pieces of construction equipment along the route. If you travel in this vicinity, please do so with extreme caution and observe all warning signs. We are concerned with your safety as we are our own.

Every effort will be made to avoid troublesome traffic conditions and with the public's cooperation we will be able to complete the project within a minimum of time. Our Company is an Equal Opportunity Employer.

It is our intent to build a quality project of which Hempstead County and the State of Arkansas can be proud, one that will be worth every tax dollar put into it.

Until the job is completed we will be ever mindful of the public's interest and convenience.

Parties don't decide the national issues, Goldwater states

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Broadcasters, and not the political parties, now decide what are the nation's political issues, Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz. says.

"And you people have got to be pretty careful about it," he told the Columbia Broadcasting System's 18th annual meeting of radio station affiliates Thursday.

Goldwater said he felt that local stations generally do a much better job of helping solve problems than do the networks.

He urged them to help develop thinkers who will come with new ideas. He said it has been so long since he has heard a really new idea "it would be hard for me to recognize it."

Goldwater told the broadcasters that because people depend on television and radio for their news, "you are forming the ideals of America."

Answering questions, he said that if President Nixon polls more than 55 per cent of the vote in November, there is a possibility the Republicans might gain control of the Senate.

"I don't sell Sen. McGovern short," he replied to a question about election prospects. "If we can keep Dick in San Clemente, we can do all right."

GOP IS STRONGER BERNARD STATES

JONESBORO, Ark. (AP) — Charles T. Bernard of Earle, chairman of the state Republican party, said here Thursday night he thought the GOP in Arkansas was stronger at the grassroots level than it ever has been before.

He pointed out that there were 110 Republican candidates in the November election.

Bernard predicted that President Nixon would win reelection by a landslide in November, carrying local Republican candidates into office with him.

"We're unified, we're on fire and we can do it," Bernard told the Northeast Arkansas Regional Republican Committee meeting. "The people of Arkansas have a choice for a change."

A Soldier's Best Friend Is His Foxhole

The South Vietnamese soldiers dug in, above, near Phong Dien have learned one of the prime lessons for an infantryman: There's nothing like a nice, deep hole. Among those who learned it before were the American GIs on Utah Beach, Normandy, during the Allied D-Day invasion of 1944, above right. And they had learned it from their doughboy predecessors in the trenches on the Meuse in 1918, below right.

Bomb search is continuing

MARQUETTE, Mich. (AP) — Airmen at a Strategic Air Command base near here continue their search today for a bomb believed hidden in a 800,000-gallon jet fuel tank.

The Secret Service was holding a man in Escanaba, about 50 miles south of here, in connection with the reported planting of a bomb at the K.I. Sawyer Air Force Base.

Authorities said the man was also being questioned in connection with Thursday's discovery of 45 sticks of buried dynamite near the Sawyer base, as well as last month's bombing of Kincheloe Air Force Base near Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.

Federal authorities gave only sketchy details of the investigation.

At Secret Service headquarters in Washington, a spokesman said the search was being

KENTUCKY PAPER DROPS LEGAL AID

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — In light of a U.S. Supreme Court ruling, the Louisville Courier-Journal has said it will not give further legal support to Paul Branzburg, a former reporter for the newspaper.

Branzburg has been sentenced to six months in jail for refusing to give information to a Jeffers County grand jury.

He is presently a reporter in Detroit, and officials have indicated they might not seek to extradite him to serve his jail sentence.

The editor and publisher of the paper, Barry Bingham Jr., noted that the case has gone to the Supreme Court, "and I just don't think there's anything more we can do. We just have to live with the law."

The Supreme Court ruled in June that newsmen do not have the right to withhold information from grand juries.

Branzburg had refused to testify about a hashish making operation he witnessed and wrote about in 1969 while working for the Courier-Journal.

Commonwealth's Atty. Edwin Schroering said Thursday he may drop the case against Branzburg if present evidence indicates the hashish operation is no longer in Louisville.

Branzburg was sentenced several weeks ago, but has not been brought back to Louisville.

— If a crab loses a claw in a fight, it can grow a new one.

conducted on the basis of information received by the agency there and at its Grand Rapids, Mich., office. He did not specify how the information was received.

The search started early Thursday morning after federal agents told base officials there might be a bomb hidden there.

Air Force officials said there were still several thousand gallons of fuel in the tank when the search was stopped Thursday night. They said the fuel was being pumped into tanks far away from the suspected bomb site where it could not be set off by an explosion.

Officials said the Secret Service is keeping the man with them, instead of turning him over to the FBI which has jurisdiction in such incidents, because he might be able to give them information on other matters.

In Washington, Secret Service Agent Jack Warner said the man being held first came under Secret Service scrutiny some months ago after he wrote a letter to President Nixon in which he expressed "an unusual animosity towards the federal government."

On Sept. 15, Warner said, the agency had the man committed for mental tests. But Warner would not say what the tests showed or whether the man has a criminal record.

Barbering: The end of an era

CONWAY, Ark. (AP) — There'll no longer be bad-mouthing of the Republican party. The virtues of the Democratic party won't be repeated, and there'll be no more tall tales about turkey hunting, running down rabbits or such at 814 Chestnut Street in Conway.

Three Conway barbers whose ages total 233 and who have been barbering 175-take one, two or more years either way—have quit business.

The Grand Barber Shop was vacated by Charles Janski, Cecil Lane and R.L. Johnson, who have been partners the past 14 years. The equipment was dumped.

The building is being taken back by E.M. Cummins & Son Furniture, Inc., for storage. The barbers subleased from Cummins.

Janski, 78, a native of Vilonia, said he started cutting hair at the age of 12, but he dates his official start in business as Feb. 12, 1909. On that date he cut Coy Parker's hair and last week he cut Parker's hair again. Parker, nearing 84, lives in Conway.

Janski came to Conway in September 1918, and became an employee of the late Fred Hobbs, with whom he worked 27 years. He then went to the Grand Barber Shop which was located in the former Grand Theater building (now occupied by Monday-Powell Shoe Co.) and remained there two years. He was associated with the late George Yarborough and A.C. Sharp and purchased Sharp's interest. In 1958 he formed a partnership with Johnson and Lane and the shop was moved to the Chestnut Street location.

Lane got his start in the barber trade in 1918 at West Grove (Newton County). He later worked a short time at Atkins and also at Camp Pike (during World War I) near Little Rock. He's worked in five shops during his career.

Robert Lee (Betty) Johnson,

84, is a native of Weldon (Jackson County). He learned the barber trade at Quidman from the late Arch Cole.

Janski added that in recent years he didn't shave more than one or two men a week.

When he and his partners quit business this week the standard prices were $1 for a shave and $1.75 for a haircut.

Johnson, Lane and Janski never worked at the Grand Barber Shop at the same time. The shop had only two chairs. One of the veterans would be off each day. Sometimes Lane would be gone a week or longer if it happened to be deer season.

Their barber shop was not the gathering place for a large number of loafers because there simply wasn't that much room. There've been some hot arguments about politics, taxes, hunting and current topics of the day, nevertheless, especially among Lane and Janski. Johnson, the mild and quiet member of the trio, usually did more listening than "jawing".

The trio recalled they rented the building their shop occupied from the Terry Dairy Co. of Little Rock at $25 a month when they started, and that's what they were paying for the final month they occupied it.

The trio agreed that "long-hairs" cut down tremendously on their business as well as every barber shop in the country in recent years.

ATTENDS COLLEGE—U.S. Air Force Maj. William K. James, son of Mr. and Mrs. W.F. James of Hope, is attending the Armed Forces Staff College at Norfolk, Va.

The five-month Department of Defense school is operated under the direct supervision of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and prepares students for positions in joint and combined commands that involve more than one country or military service.

Maj. James, who has completed 10 months duty in Vietnam, has 14 years service with the Air Force which is celebrating its 25th anniversary this month.

He attended Hope High School and received his BS degree in geology in 1968 from Southern Methodist University where he was commissioned upon completion of the Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corps program.

Maj. and Mrs. James, the former Mary J. Alsop, have three children: Kelly, John and Bradley.

Some labor votes may fall to Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — If to divide is to conquer, Richard Nixon may capture a substantial portion of the labor vote. It would be a coup virtually without precedent for a modern-day Republican.

The first half of the problem already has been whipped: the normally close-knit ranks of the labor-union leadership have splintered. Labor advisers to both candidates say the split can only benefit Nixon and harm Democratic nominee George McGovern.

Labor's early-summer disarray has hardened into identifiable pro-Nixon, pro-McGovern and neutral camps, a splintering due only in part to Nixon's overtures to its leaders even from the early days of his administration.

McGovern himself contributed to the split simply by taking positions some labor leaders, notably the redoubtable George Meany, find personally repugnant. When the gap between McGovern and the labor chiefs inched wider, Nixon swiftly moved in.

The factionalization of organized labor has made "the American worker" perhaps the most diligently wooed voter in current campaign literature.

Gone is that easy labeling of this American worker—multiplied by some 60 million cutting across virtually all economic, ethnic and geographical lines—as a Democrat.

"Anybody traveling around and across the country meeting local union leaders and rank-and-file people, as I have, will find most of organized labor will be for the President," said Donald F. Rodgers, Nixon's special consultant for labor affairs.

But McGovern supporters Joseph A. Beirne, president of the AFL-CIO Communications Workers, and Howard Samuel, vice president of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, disagree. "The enthusiasm is there" for McGovern, maintained Beirne, also an official of a McGovern-Shriver National Labor Committee.

But Rodgers and Beirne agree that the split among AFL-CIO leaders can only help Nixon and hurt McGovern.

"No question about it," said Beirne, who vainly sought to persuade 78-year-old AFL-CIO President George Meany to support McGovern.

Meany steered the 35-man executive committee of the 116-union, 13.6-million-member AFL-CIO to a 27-3 vote to endorse neither presidential contender.

"Labor people are most predominantly Democratic. Obviously, anything short of a Democratic endorsement is a plus for the President," Rodgers said of the AFL-CIO's neutral stance.

A recent Louis Harris poll showed 49 per cent labor support for Nixon and 40 per cent for McGovern, but Beirne counters that "I don't remember a single poll dealing with organized labor that ever stood up."

Another imponderable is how much influence labor leaders have on their own members, and on the nonunion labor vote.

Out of a total American work force of some 60 million, only about one-third belongs to unions.

People in the News

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI has returned to the Vatican after spending the summer at the papal palace in Castel Gandolfo, in the Alban Hills south of Rome.

About 200 pilgrims greeted the Pope on Thursday as his motorcade entered St. Peter's Square.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actor Godfrey Cambridge is undergoing prolonged hospital treatment for retention of fluids that had brought his weight up to nearly 300 pounds. Cambridge, who entered the hospital last May, now weighs about 200 pounds.

The 39-year-old actor said Thursday he is keeping busy by writing his autobiography and working on several other projects, including an antinarcotics movie. Doctors hope to get Cambridge down to 160 pounds before releasing him from the Motion Picture Country Hospital.

NEW YORK (AP) — Alvin (Pete) Rozelle, pro football commissioner, has been granted a divorce from his wife of 23 years, Jane Marilyn. He will pay $27,500 a year in support and will share custody of the couple's 14-year-old daughter.

Rozelle testified Thursday in court that he and his wife had been separated for more than two years by mutual consent. A separation of one year is grounds for divorce here.

Mrs. Rozelle lives in San Clemente, Calif. She did not contest the divorce.

Church youth slate sale

The Youth Department of the Hope Church of the Nazarene is sponsoring a "Trash and Treasure Sale" on Saturday, September 23. The sale will begin at 7:30 a.m. and continue until dark or until sold out. The Teens have chosen the old Safe, Lock and Key Company at 214 S. Walnut Street for the place of the sale.

There will be many items on sale, and only clean, pressed items will be offered. There are all kinds of good clothing, shoes, hats, umbrellas, draperies, bedding, pillows, dishes, pots and pans, toasters, irons, a luggage carrier for a car, a radio, a nice white formal and many more. All items will be priced to sell.

Bible scholars meet under sign of the butterfly

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

It was the biggest gathering of Bible scholars ever held, about 3,000 of them, from 26 countries. They met under the sign of the butterfly — a symbol of humanity's soaring spirit. And they sought to trace its horizons.

"The highest ideal," said Roman Catholic theologian Walter Kasper, of Germany's University of Tubingen, "is now no longer the person who possesses himself and who exists in and for himself, but rather existence for the many."

That, he added, is the goal upheld by Jesus, whose life unleashed a love that overcomes the world's dominating snare, the "will to power," and that makes for a "revolution which reaches to the very depth of man's understanding of reality."

It offers the "beginning and the foundation of a new reconciled humanity," he said.

This was a note sounded frequently as the thinkers, representing 15 different associations of specialized scholarship, met in Los Angeles recently for the International Congress of Learned Societies in the Field of Religion, the first of its kind and scope.

It was sponsored by the School of Theology at Claremont, Calif., and the American Council of Learned Societies.

"Indeed, the very questions which confront us now call us back in every way to the Book of Genesis and the theme of possible new beginnings," he said.

Drive the nail into the board... that is penetration! You may be sure it won't enter of its own accord. It must be driven with sufficient, well-concentrated, properly directed energy. It takes a real artisan to wield a hammer like that. It takes a genuine God to penetrate some of our lives the way He does, too. Jesus "hit the nail on the head" when he said, "There is a way that seemeth right to a man, but the end thereof is the way of death." The Great Carpenter teaches us the fine art of living... how to flex the wrist to give the proper blow... to hold the tongue and protect a good name... to give a faithful witness and save a soul... to lose yourself in a cause infinitely bigger than yourself. Go to church Sunday and drive that nail straight and true. That's penetration!

Waldheim wants to end terrorism

Proposal OK is expected

By WILLIAM N. OATIS

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Diplomats generally predicted that U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim will win a recommendation from the General Assembly's steering committee today in favor of his proposal for an assembly debate this year on how to stop terrorism.

But some felt that he might lose later in the assembly itself because the African bloc, comprising 41 of the 132 U.N. members, was pushing a contrary proposal to defer any such debate till next year.

Others expressed hope that some compromise would be worked out before the full assembly got to the matter — probably Saturday morning — since the secretary-general's effectiveness might suffer if he were defeated there in a confrontation with the Africans.

Foreign Minister Abba Eban of Israel arrived in New York Thursday to attend the assembly session. He told newsmen that "a great evil is abroad in the world and once again the Jewish people are the principal target."

Eban said he planned to meet in Washington today with Secretary of State William P. Rogers, but he didn't say what they would discuss.

The assembly is expected this afternoon to adopt a recommendation from the steering committee that it defer debate on Korea to next year.

The 28 proponents of holding such a debate this year, among them China and the Soviet Union, want U.S. troops removed from South Korea.

But they planned to get their views on Korea across to the world by speaking against that recommendation before the assembly voted on it.

The African proposal to defer debate on Waldheim's "Measures to Prevent Terrorism" took the secretary-general by surprise as he sat on the dais of the steering committee Thursday night.

Ambassador Radha Krishna Ramphul of Mauritius came in from a private meeting of the African group and made a motion "in view of the decisions of that group." He then got an adjournment of the committee to today.

Members of the African group said privately that they feared action by the United Nations against terrorism would hamper African liberation movements and, in the words of one of them, turn the measure into "an instrument of repression."

Barge smashes into bay bridge tunnel

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Military salvage workers said today a 235-foot barge that slashed huge chunks from the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel has been secured but they did not know when the craft would be towed away.

Salvage workers labored through the night to embed the barge in the sand at the edge of the bay and reported it no longer was an immediate threat to the battered 17.6-mile-long structure.

The barge, which went on a wind-whipped rampage early Thursday and repeatedly pounded the bridge after being separated from a tugboat, remained with its bow nestled in the last gaping hole gouged in the bridge.

A spokesman for the bridge-tunnel commission said there was no final report on the amount of structural damage to the bridge, but indicated the key link in the ocean highway that extends from New York to Florida might be closed a month or more.

The collision with the bridge occurred exactly 32 months after the Navy cargo ship Yancey ripped out a 375-foot section of the structure, closing it to traffic for 42 days. Repairs cost $1.7 million.

Salvage workers from the Army, Navy and Coast Guard feared the incoming tide could raise the barge enough to allow her to batter the bridge again-labored under floodlights Thursday night and early today to secure the craft, which was partly grounded about half a mile from the bridge's Virginia Beach terminus.

Heavy lines attached to cranes held the bow of the barge, littered with debris from the bridge's roadbed, and pumps poured water into the empty craft to weigh it down in the sand.

BAT PROBLEM IS LIKELY IN STATE

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Dr. Harvie R. Ellis, state director of the Veterinary Public Health Division, said Thursday that the bat migration could cause an additional rabies problem in Arkansas this fall.

About 100 confirmed cases of rabies have been reported so far this year. There were 139 cases last year, Ellis said.

Part of the problem is the annual migration of bats as they follow the insects south. The bats could pose an additional problem until mid-November, Ellis said.

Spears Carpet Mills, Inc., of Hope, Arkansas, announces the promotion of Delmore Burns to the position of vice president in charge of production. Mr. Burns has had 15 years experience in the carpet industry.

GUEST SPEAKER

Guests speaker for Sunday, September 24, services at the Southside Baptist Church will be the Rev. Mike Prescott of Conway. The church extends a cordial invitation for everyone to attend.

Business mirror

By JOHN CUNNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Noting that federal tax reform has become a leading economic issue, and that debate tends to be more emotional than rational, the Tax Foundation has set out to set the record straight.

The nonprofit institution, which claims also to be non-partisan and interested solely in the goal of more efficient and economical government, supplies consistent opinions.

The first proposition tackled is the claim that wealthy people are not paying income taxes.

Yes, the foundation states, "A small number of persons with high adjusted gross income had no net taxable income and thus owed no tax in 1970." It lists 112 individuals with incomes over $200,000 who paid no tax in 1970.

But, "The outstanding fact brought out in the tabulation ... with respect to the $200,000 and over income group, is that 15,211 out of 15,323 returns in this group did pay taxes"

On the other hand, "At the other end of the income scale, nontaxability is considerably more common," the foundation reminds us. "For example, in 1970 there were some 51 million returns filed with adjusted gross income under $10,000. Of these, 15 million, or nearly 30 per cent, paid no federal income tax."

Proposition No. 2: "Some big corporations do not pay taxes and profits are high."

"Political observers have noted that almost 40 per cent of all corporations pay no federal income tax. The fact is that in a typical year almost 40 per cent of all corporations operate at a loss, with no income left to be taxed away."

As for profits: "Profits have not risen nearly so rapidly as other economic indicators in recent years."

Proposition No. 3: "Taxes are too high." The foundation agrees.

Proposition No. 4: "Federal expenditures will go up and we need more revenue, perhaps a tax increase." The foundation disagrees. It suggests that too much is being spent now.

What arouses curiosity about the report is not the findings. The foundation is strong in research and notable for factual accuracy. It is notable, however, that the foundation considers these propositions most worthy of its immediate attention when there are so many other issues involved in what it calls "the challenge of tax reform."

Perhaps the explanation lies in a list on the report's final page.

It is a list of names, of members of the foundation's board of trustees and trustees' advisory council. It is a list also of chairman and presidents of the nation's largest corporations, of some of the nation's richest men.

AIDC MAY HIRE BRITISH INDUSTRIAL CONSULTANT

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Dan Roebuck, director of the Arkansas Industrial Development Department, proposed Thursday that the AIDC consider hiring an international consultant to help attract European industry to the state.

He told the commission that Joel A. Taylor of London, England had offered to pursue contacts made by the department in Europe last spring. Roebuck said it was necessary to follow up on contracts if the state hoped to attract foreign industry.

Roebuck said Taylor, 47, a native of Rector, had offered to work for the AIDC in Europe for $12,000 annually. Roebuck said he believed the fee was reasonable.
